"SENIOR TRADITIONS"

Senior Traditions. They have been continued through the years at WHS for as long as any of us can remember. Traditions are new to us as Freshmen, and they are a part of us as Seniors.

A strictly followed and enjoyed tradition at WHS is the Senior Breakfast. How many other schools can say that their Seniors get up extra early on the first day of school just so they can eat breakfast and enter the school all together? Not many. And the Class of 1995 holds no exception to the rule.

We got out of bed at the crack of dawn in order to meet at Abdow's, site of past breakfasts, way before it opened! We ate, talked, laughed, whined, and pretended not to be nervous. The previous night we were too anxious to fall asleep, but we forgot about our exhaustion once we were surrounded by friends.

We wore our tie-dyed "Senior T-shirts", another tradition carried on by the Class of 1995. After making them nearly a week before at Erika Jansen's house, we were definitely excited about wearing them. The bright yellows, blues, greens, and reds made us stand out and look like a team, a unit, and a united class.

As we all hopped in our cars after eating and made our way in a long Senior parade through town, we knew that this was our year; we were the oldest, the ones the Frosh looked up to and the Junior were jealous of. We were the Class of '95 and WE HAD ARRIVED!!!

FIRST DAY

I had always thought that the first day of my freshman year in high school was going to be the scariest day of my life. So naturally, I was a little nervous when I got off the bus. But by the end of the day, I realized I had no reason to be scared.

On the way to my homeroom, I heard the seniors loudly announcing their arrival, I saw the juniors checking out the frosh, the sophomores celebrating that they are no longer the babies of the school, and the freshmen searching the crowds for a familiar face. The whole idea of high school was so foreign, but somehow I felt as if I belonged. I knew a lot of upperclassmen because of my brothers and field hockey, but I didn't expect that they would acknowledge me. To my surprise, several people went out of their way to welcome me by showing me where my next class was or by just saying "hi".

The whole first day atmosphere at Westboro High was friendly, spirited, and congenial. What I had anticipated to be a frightening experience turned out to be an exciting day that I will never forget.

Once upon a time, the members of the 1994-1995 yearbook staff dragged themselves out of bed, to be at the High School by 8 a.m. Under the direction of Business Editor Julie Golden, and the other editors, the day began. As the sun made its way across the vast, cloudless sky, the staff succeeded in eating soap, dancing to music, drinking soda, eating pizza, chit-chatting, taking pictures, and eventually washing lots of cars. By the end of the afternoon, they all had mastered the art of car-washing and everyone lived happily ever after. The end.

Starry Starry Night

JUNIOR PROM '94

▼Noel Ketchi and Mike Daniels, where are your dates?

▼▼Hey Guys, why aren't you dancing?

If the prom could be summed up in one word, it would be anticipation. The prom — the event we spent days, months, and in short, the greater part of our young lives preparing for. First, was the great quest for the perfect location. Then came the date dilemma, which started shortly before the Holiday Ball rush of '93. Once the dates had been set and reset, we blinked and the limo arrangements were in place. Not only did we need to have the perfect car, we also wanted to have the perfect people in it. Next came the hardest, but the most fun part of the whole ordeal — the search for the perfect dress. After months of stalking, trying on, comparing, exchanging, and altering the perfect dress, we were almost ready to go. Almost. But first came the shoes. And the stockings, and the jewelry, and the make-up. By the week of the prom, there was little time to worry about our hair. The appointments, the curlers, the hair spray, and the tears. But finally, April 8, 1994 arrived — we buzzed in and out of school, baseball caps on head and excitement in mind. By 11:15 half the Junior Class breezed out of the building, headed for hair and nail salons. We somehow spent the rest of the day preparing for one of the most exciting (and expensive) nights of our lives.

By 11:00 p.m., everything but the memories were over — the endless photo sessions with our parents and friends, the limo ride to the Holiday Inn Crowne Plaze, the court procession accompanied by the Northern Exposure theme. After one night of class unity and fun, we headed off in our separate directions, picture frames and shoes in hand. Thus ended a much anticipated and exciting evening, and one "Starry, Starry Night" we'll never forget.

A How-to Guide for the Prom

The day has finally arrived. After weeks of waiting and daily withdrawals from your bank account, the Prom is here. Order of events: 1. Get dismissed from school (I've . . . uh, got a hair appointment). 2. Go for a nice leisurely lunch. 3. Realize how late it is and quickly pick up: A) tux, B) flowers, and C) date.

So far, the day looks pretty promising. As you finish buttoning the last of your cuff links at around four o'clock, you step back and take things into perspective. Not too shabby. The flowers look good, the tux looks good, and surprisingly enough you don't look too bad yourself. Note to add: Write a thank-you letter to the people at Oxy.

Now all there is to do is wait for Gary and the Rolls Royce to pull up at 4:15. You try to relax and ignore your camera-happy parents.

As the car pulls up at 4:30 (Heart attack? No. My chest heaves like that all the time.) You settle into the vehicle that you have spent long hours working for. Your parents, who have run out of film by this time, wave meekly from the outside. Their part is done.

You pick up your date and before long, you are off again — this time towards your final destination. (Attention Passengers: We will be disembarking in just a few moments. Please gather all your belongings — and try not to look too good.)

After a quick pit-stop at the wrong hotel, you finally arrive at The Place. You step out of the car under the lighted canopy and look around. Take a breath, it's all about to begin . . .

There's too much to remember afterwards, and as you stumble from the Hotel, mind buzzing with excitement, your wait for your eyes to adjust to outside. The Main Event of Junior Year is over and you have emerged as victor and still champion. Note to add: don't ever forget it.

SOFTBALL

SOFTBALL NEWS:

Yes, the Seniors (Juniors of last June), challenged the old and infirmed staff and faculty (sorry Mrs. Lovejoy and Mr. Allen) to a softball game.

Being benevolent, we, the old folks, thought it would be nice to give the up-and-coming a chance to prove themselves. The game unfolded slowly with only ten old people against unlimited youth and vigor (I think they had 22 players). History is easy, we beat them severely, 25 to 2.

How did we triumph over such odds? Team work, talent, and knowing all the answers to all those questions. One day soon the current juniors will be thinking, "can we beat those old folks?"

As we walked into the gym we could sense the excitement in the air. It was Competition Day 1994, and each class was determined to win. Each class took their respected places on the bleachers and the games began.

The competition was fierce, and sweat poured down our faces as we gave it our all. The spectators were on the edge of their seats overwhelmed by the athleticism of the competitors.

We tossed rings, climbed on balance beams, and jumped on trampolines as part of the activities.

As the decisions were announced and both cries of joy and disappointment filled the gym. Competition Day '94 had come to a close.

SENIORS

POWDER PUFF 1994

After two weeks of extensive practice with a veteran Powder Puff coach, the senior girls were ready to defend their title as Powder Puff Champs.

The "friendly" rivalry between the senior and junior classes began in early November and intensified as game day approached. After the traditional pasta party at Sarah Hawkins's house, the Seniors drove by the Juniors' party to show them what to expect in terms of spirit and unity from the Senior class.

On the morning of the game, the Seniors met in the parking lot to make their grand entrance and do our famous elephant dance. Throughout the day the Seniors kept up their spirit by blowing party horns. As usual both classes stole, ripped up, and wore each other's banners to show which class was better.

At the end of the day the Seniors took the field confidently with our game plan well rehearsed, thanks to Coach Doherty. The Seniors took charge of the game early with an interception by Amanda Young, eventually leading to a touchdown pass from quarterback Erin Megin to Meagan Smith. Erin Megin also contributed to the victory by kicking three perfect extra points. Other standouts for the Seniors included Alissa Pastner and Kristin Doherty. The final score was the Seniors 28 and the Juniors 12.

All in all the Powder Puff game was an enjoyable experience, and a great way to contribute to charity. This game will not be forgotten, especially not by the players of the victorious, undefeated class of '95!! Bu-Bye!

Throughout the years we've all noticed that there are good and bad points about Powder Puff. This year we definitely experienced them both. We had practices filled with endless laughter, skilled coaching, and a great sense of class unity. There was a pasta party for all the Juniors at Jacey Bloom's house the night before the game. We made t-shirts and banners after eating a super scrumptious Subway meal. Little did we know, the Seniors had their own plan that included us.

While we were outside designing our t-shirts, we heard a distant chant of "95" coming closer. Our first reaction, to the large group of Seniors getting out of their cars, was to grab eggs and put up our defense. It didn't take long for the Seniors to get the hint and take off.

The next morning, getting to McDonalds for breakfast wasn't easy. Some Juniors found eggs smashed either in or on their cars. As the day progressed, all banners were ripped down and bad attitudes formed (which we felt was unfortunate). While the rowdy Seniors had their loud, obnoxious party favors, the Juniors (being so organized), had the top ten list "Why Juniors Are Better Than Seniors" out by second period.

The game began at 2:00, and by this time both teams were ready for the rumble. Our awesome cheerleaders supported us, and helped us carry the attitude that we weren't playing to win, but to have fun. With the Seniors winning 28-12, we still didn't feel it was much of a loss. The egging had gotten out of hand, but at the same time it brought our class closer together. In all, the Juniors may have lost the game, but in the end we know we won the battle.

PROJECT ADVENTURE

You're climbing, you're spotting, you're encouraging others, you're tied into a harness, you're on belay, you're on Project Adventure!

On the first day of school, WHS students were surprised with a brand new gym activity. You know something has changed in the Physical Education department when a 49 foot platform towers next to the gym building. Gym class, for the lucky project adventurers, was going to be far from the normal McWhippit.

Project Adventure training begins with group activities and games designed to develop cooperation and trust. This is a more personal gym class, where the group has to support and help each other. After the fun and challenging games such as trust falls and the Human Ladder, the group moves outside to do the lower level activities. These challenges, comfortably close to the ground, are The Mowhawk Walk and The Wall. From these activities, Project Adventure moves up off the ground. The first high altitude challenge is the Log. Coach LaDuke was the first to try the 25 foot high telephone pole. He said that when he first got up there, he "Hugged the tree so tight that the sap came out of it."

The more difficult high elements include the Tension Traverse and the grand finale — THE ZIP LINE. The first student to brave the Zip Line was Amanda Young and she's still alive, so don't worry — just jump!

Project Adventure is definitely a welcome addition to the P.E. department at WHS. It is a great chance for students to build confidence by overcoming obstacles and fears all the while being cheered on by a supportive group. Ask any of those students who have taken the challenge of Project Adventure and they will agree that they have gained self-esteem from their accomplishments.

Study Abroad

To leave your family, friends, and life for one year isn't always an easy decision. However, it is an incredible opportunity to live and travel in another country for one year. Darat (Nan) Manopiniwes from Thailand, Mats Persson from Sweden, Diana Milani from Germany, and Pavol Konicky from Slovakia each told us a little bit about their experiences at Westboro High School and the United States.

According to Diana and Mats, the U.S. is lacking in public transportation, and they wonder "what's up" with the consistent annoying commercial breaks in between t.v. programs? They also think that vacations are too short and they wish there were night clubs for minors.

Diana doesn't seem to understand the necessity of changing clothes every day. After all, jeans aren't dirty after wearing them for a few hours! Mats loves the American junk food, especially donuts! Pavol, a man of few words, didn't have much to say about school, but he did say his main hobby continues to be travelling. Nan is happy that she doesn't have to wear uniforms to school. She said the atmosphere in school in the U.S. is much more laid back than Thailand.

The exchange students still haven't formed all their opinions about the U.S., but we hope they enjoyed their year at Westboro High School.

Senior spends the year in Ecuador

Sarah Kohlstrom, a student from Westboro High School, spent her senior year in Ecuador. The yearbook staff wrote to her, and she wrote back and told us a little about her life as an exchange student. The following is an excerpt from her letter:

Hola Westboro High School!

I don't know where to begin . . . Ecuador is incredible! The life here is so different than the life that we're used to. The people are so friendly! When I first arrived everyone wanted to know who I was, where I came from, and what I thought of their country and their food. They all worried about me (and still do). I will only be here a short time, but already it feels like I've known everyone for a lifetime!

Words can honestly not describe what Ecuador is like. There is beauty all around me, in the people, in the gigantic Andes mountains, and even in the food. My Spanish is hundreds of times better, and I have a whole new way of looking at everyday traditions and life itself. I know that when I leave from here it will be just as hard for me as when I life my family and friends in Massachusetts. Mami, Papi, Santiago, Junior, todos mis tios y primos y amigos: les amo mucho, con todo mi corozon!

Love from Ecuador,
Sarah Kohlstrom

▲ Cristin Hodgens stands proudly in uniform in front of the Capitol Building in Washington D.C.

Last March I applied to Senator Edward Kennedy to become a page for the United States House and Senate Pate program. I hoped for the best and expected the worst, until I received a letter that said I had been chosen to serve for the first semester. September arrived and I departed for Washington where I met 100 other pages for the House and Senate who were just as nervous and excited as I was. Our days began at 5:30 A.M. with breakfast in the Capitol basement and we experienced the delight of Southern fried grits. School began at 6:15 A.M. and consisted of 4 fifty minute academic programs, then, we went to the Capitol building at 9:45.

As a page my duties consisted of setting up each desk with all of the legislative calendars and bills being considered. Essentially were were gophers gathering insight, and at the same time we were able to attend the State of the Union Address and meet such dignitaries as Boris Yeltsin and Nelson Mandela. It was amazing to go into the press gallery and actually supply them with the document which would become the news, such as a resolution on Haiti or the baseball strike.

Life as a page was extremely challenging. Our lives were dictated by the schedule of the Senate, in essence. On weekends we went on field trips to Gettysburg and Annapolis. We also attended the Army-Navy game, and a performance of the Nutcracker with Chelsea Clinton as a member of the cast.

Truthfully, the impact which my experience had upon me is difficult to capture. I must admit that I was miserably lonely at times and was ready to return to the comforts of home. With this in mind, I say without reservation that it was the most phenomenal experience of my life so far.

Our trip to Spain was the experience of a lifetime. From the moment we arrived in Madrid on April 16, 1994, our days were filled with sightseeing, hunger pains, group pictures, endless bus rides, Tomas chasing, and lots of laughter.

In nine days, we traveled from Madrid down to the Costa del Sol, touring through eight cities along the way. We experienced many aspects of the Spanish culture, including a bullfight in Madrid, a feria in Sevile, and flamenco dancing in Granada.

Two of the most exciting events of our trip were the nights spent dancing at the discos and our day trip to Tangier, Africa. Our second night in Spain (in Madrid), we convinced Mr. Gravel to let us go to a disco. After struggling over what to wear, we walked miles (some of in painful new shoes) through narrow streets. We were the first group there, and the first group to leave.

The other experience we will never forget is the boat ride, (or shall we say "death trap") to Africa. The hour long, stormy boat ride through the rough Strait of Gibraltar left several in the group seasick. When we finally arrived in Africa, we rode in a tour bus down the coast and stopped to ride camels. We learned the art of bargaining at various shops, and were somewhat disappointed that we couldn't "Rock the Kasbah" — mainly because it was just an old stone wall. Nevertheless, we all enjoyed an authentic African meal prepared for us while watching an overweight belly-dancer during our lunch.

We all believe that despite the lack of sleep, the endless sight seeing excursions, minor arguments, and the loss of various passports, room keys, and boarding passes, our trip to Spain was well worth it.

One word sums up the last year, capping a roller-coaster decade of dazzling political and technological landmarks that have turned the world we once knew upside down. With the fall of the Berlin Wall and the end of the Cold War, we watched old enemies become friends and business partners. Intractable conflicts that defined the Middle East and Ireland suddenly had solutions; apartheid ended peacefully in South Africa with the triumphant election of Nelson Mandela. In our own country, an electorate hungry for change decided—for the first time in 40 years—to give the Republicans a chance at the Congressional helm. And, everywhere, the computer made it all happen faster and more efficiently, bringing us closer together than we'd ever dreamed.

LIFE'S A BOX OF CHOCOLATES. Forrest Gump, with Tom Hanks, was the surprise smash of '94.

CITIZEN MANDELA

Much to its delight (for the most part), South Africa underwent what may have been the most orderly revolution in history. "There were such immense crowds, there was such a crush, often you couldn't get a shot," says photographer Louise Gubb, who followed Nelson Mandela on the campaign trail. "Blacks, whites—everyone wanted to see him."

1 Baseball Strike. Say it ain't so. A labor squabble accomplished what the Depression, two World Wars and an earthquake couldn't: it snuffed out the World Series. The strike killed a season of white-hot pennant races and on-the-diamond superlatives (Ken Griffey Jr. and Matt Williams were making credible runs at Ruth's home-run record; Tony Gwynn aimed to join Ted Williams in the .400 club). It also proved the only stat that baseball's millionaire players and multimillionaire owners really care about is the bottom line.

THE DAMAGE

The quake struck at 5:46 a.m. and lasted a mere 20 seconds—but virtually every part of Kobe suffered major damage. The death toll soared toward 5,000 and more than 25,000 persons were reported injured: city officials said about 300,000 people were homeless. Fearful of aftershocks, wary survivors picked their way through a nightmare landscape of rubble and ruination.

Fires fed by ruptured gas mains raged out of control in the chill winter wind: in many neighborhoods, firefighters were unable to douse the flames because of damage to the city water system. Office buildings lay like crumpled cardboard boxes. Some 50,000 buildings were destroyed and early estimates of property damage ranged from $30 billion to $80 billion.

1 Winged Victory Being the national emblem didn't keep the bald eagle from facing extinction. Devastated by hunters and pollution, the birds were down to a few hundred breeding pairs in the lower 48 states when they became an endangered species in 1978. Now they are back (4,000-plus pairs) and only "threatened"—out of grave danger but still off-limits to hunters.

Beating Back the Postal Rate Hike

1 Mr. and Mrs. Michael Jackson Who could have predicted that the world-famous man-child would someday renounce his bachelorhood? While still under investigation for allegedly molesting a 13-year-old boy, the self-designated King of Pop married Lisa Marie Presley, daughter of the King, in what many perceived as an attempt to cleanse his tarnished image. However, only a few months after the newlyweds kissed steamily at the MTV Video Music Awards, gossip columnists buzzed that the marriage would soon be nullified, a rumor the Jacksons deny.

Secret Santa

Wearing a ridiculous outfit, saying or doing something embarrassing in front of everyone in the lunch room. Is it all worth the gift you recieve for completing your task?

Secret Santa is always done the last week before Christmas vacation. It's open to all seniors, and everyone who signs up is given a "Santa". His/her "Santa gives him/her a task to do during the day, which is usually pretty humiliating. For this humiliation he/she is given a small gift in their locker after school.

The costumes of the seniors range from being totally random (but hilarious) to a bad joke bringing up dirt from the past. Although not all stunts may seem really funny or cute, they all take a lot of courage to perform in front of so many people.

Jarrod Matteson

▲ Amy Baptiste is the product of Marisa Hanaka's ingenuity.

▲▲ Parviz Parvizi stirs up all the hatred that he attracted in Spain.

▲ Doritos has selected our Prom Queen, Erin Megin, as their new spokesperson.

▲ Kerry McNamara needs a welder's mask to block out the powerful rays given off by Brian Fisher.

▲ Aaron "Bucky" Walters learns his lesson.

REMEMBER WHEN:

*Tomas said "Wakie Wakie"
*We trashed the Knights of Columbus at the Valentine's Day Dance
*Bloody Mary was forever on the mirror at Hastings
*Jen Gingras fainted in Gym class
*Amy and her desk toppled over ("landslide Amy")
*Sarah Kohlstrom taught us how to play pool
*Matt and Adam were separated from the group going to Hampton
*People still wore their pants around their waists
*Dumping other people's books was cool
*We played on the green jungle gym
*Garbage Pail Kids were popular and we all traded
*Sarah/Suzy Must Have Eaten Oreo?
*We got the "Fales Funspace"
*The time capsule
*Carl Seeley's hair
*Mr. Fornier handed out "Zeros" and "One Hundred Grands?"
*Mathilda Tanner and Clayton Shih played "My Pretty Ponies"
*Jason Connoly proposed to every girl at Fales
*We went to Merf's MOPs
*Merf had her own version of softball
*Kerry McNamara threw up on Mrs. Fenton
*The "Alligator Pit" with the butter
*We were dying to write in cursive
*Duso the Dolphin taught us about feelings
*We were forced to sing "Tah-tah-tee-tee-tah"
*H-A-double L-O-W-double E-N spells Halloween
*Our 5th grade books Growing Up and Liking It
*We all had crushes on Matt Borghesi
*We all had crushes on Lauren Staffieri
*Matt and Lauren went out and we were all jealous
*Mrs. Pillsucker kept us in line
*If you got the raisin in your cake you got to wear the crown
*Mrs. Graham gave us concussions with her flying bracelets
*7B1 was the party class of the Middle School
*We learned the preposition song
*Scott (Skippy) Remley
*We showered in gym
*We tried in the mile
*We blew off Mr. Maher
*Rodney Polkinghorne taught us about Australia
*We played "the betting game" with Mr. Despres
*We all got perms and braces (wow)
*We all unplugged the computers on Mr. Passler
*Mr. Beanie taught us Reading at the Middle School
*Westboro Middle School wasn't named after some unknown teacher
*Our grade was full of "Bats"
*Mrs. Graham told us to spell "Modification"
*We were banished from the general downtown area in 6th grade
*Mr. Lameraux taught us the Bobby Brown "Prerogative" dance
*Our grade was governed by "The Clan"
*"The Rumble": The Skaters vs. the Preps
*We were on the "Habitual Wanderer" list
*We met at the golf course to fight
*Justin Thompson and Karen Pratter were the two most intimidating third graders in the world
*We all wanted to play "tag" with Matt Storey and Tony Baldanza
*We pretended to be ponies from Kindergarten to Fourth Grade

SENIORS: WHAT DO YOU KNOW NOW THAT YOU WISH YOU KNEW AS A FRESHMAN?

1) nobody cares
2) it's just TOO easy
3) people lie a lot
4) Regatta is 100% better than Subway
5) who my true friends are
6) every year counts
7) that we were very annoying
8) that walking down the hall by yourself is okay
9) driving really isn't that much fun
10) you really will look back and laugh

TO THE CLASS OF 1995

It has been a pleasure for me to know each of the members of the Class of 1995. There are so many memorable moments for me and I will treasure them forever. I want to leave you with two thoughts that may help you in the future: To reduce conflict, look at the other person and see what their world is like; also, only the weak are cruel, gentleness can only be expected from the strong.

Top Ten Reasons to Play a Sport at WHS

10. Gives you the potential to be a guest on The Third Half
9. You get to dress up like an idiot to school
8. A chance to be a Power Ranger
7. An excuse to run three miles in less than fifteen minutes
6. You can build up your arm muscles by carrying the water
5. Keeps you substance free
4. You get to warm the bench (and get splinters)
3. You still get to ride on a school bus, even if you have your license
2. An excuse to put off doing your homework
1. Free food — pasta parties!

TOUCHDOWN

Despite our 5-5 record, the '94 Rangers had a very successful season. We not only rebounded from a 1-9 season, but also won the league championship with a 3-1 record. We had many accomplishments during the season. In Gardner, led by our dominating offensive line, we had three backs run for over 100 yards, the first time in Westborough history. But without a doubt the highlight of our season was the Thanksgiving Day game. We embarrassed the Algonquin Tomahawks by beating them with a score 21-3, and clinched the league championship. We managed to pull together as a team and played the kind of football we had hoped to play all year. It was a great season, and we wish the best of luck to next year's team.

STICKIN' AROUND

Song Story

After we lost 10 Seniors from the previous year, "Everybody" anticipated a tough season. However, double sessions proved the team was "Alrighty" to go and no "Mama Was Gonna Knock Us Out." As captains, we warned the teams there was to be no drinking of "Gin and Juice." We decided not to "Blame It On The Rain" when we tied Quabbin our first game. Instead, we formed a new "State Of Mind" and figured, "Okay-Okay-Okay," we need to develop a "Buffalo Stance" if we plan on "Winning It All." So we "Pumped Up The Jam" cause "All We Wanted To Do Was Have Some Fun." When we began to "Regulate" our success by mid season, We knew the "Glory Days" were well on their way. We thought WHS was ready to share our "Good Vibrations," so we came into school wearing our prom dresses and knew everyone agreed we were way "Too Sexy."

In our first challenge against Oakmont some of our players acted like "Fruitcakes" and had to "Simmer Down" after receiving yellow cards. Our loss to Oakmont created our desire to not only "Destroy Their Sweaters" but "F . . . ight Them Like Animals." Towards the end of the season we felt our "Life Was A Highway" when we traveled to Gardner only to find one referee and we had to go all the way home.

For the remainder of our season the Bad A. Girls fought like "Warriors" as we were seeded fourth in our Division, leaving the other teams with "Nowhere To Run." We invited Tantasqua to "Come Out and Play" at our "Small Town" field. After beating them 2-0 we sent them back to their "Sweet Home Alabama." With Wachusett on their way and due to an earlier "Sabotage" between the Hag and Ms. Debish, we knew it was our job to "Keep 'Em Separated." Our loss to Wachusett shattered our dreams of "Laying Our Hands" on the state title. "Girls", "Someday We Suppose"WHS will win the state title. As far as we're concerned we got more "Satisfaction" out of the season than any "Brass Monkey" ever did. All we have left to say is good luck to the future field hockey Rangers-we'll hear about you on the "Coconut Telegraph" and "Kathleen Johnson, Sweetheart, We'd Like To Thank Ya."

Keep the Pace

The members of the Girl's Cross-Country team awoke early on the morning of August 29th for the first day of practice. We had many new members as well as many familiar faces show up that morning, along with our returning coach, John Doyle. On that morning, none of us, not even those of us returning for a second or third season, really knew what to expect. We came to find out that our coach had changed the course, and we had the privilege of running up O'Neil Drive.

In the end, we may not have had a winning season, but we shared a lot, both good and bad, as a group. Even with all of our countless injuries, we made it through this season, with a pep talk or two from our coach. We all learned a lot about ourselves. If we really put our minds to it, we could do anything — even get up O'Neil. We had to remember that when we reached the top, the worst was over. I think that if I could say anything about this past season, I'd have to say that with a lot of hard work we made it the best possible season.

The Westboro High School 1994 Men's Cross-Country team continued their tradition of excellence. Their 3-7 record doesn't reflect the terrific season that the Ranger Harriers had.

Although they started off slow, they soon won back to back meets against Narragansett and Quabbin. This was the turning point of their season. It wasn't long before the Ranger squad had an opportunity to upset a good Auburn team, who was undefeated through a season and a half. They were up to the task and beat Auburn with a score of 27-28. Key runners to win were the freshman Ben Kaminski and sophomore Mark Vautor. They were important members to Westboro's success all season. Along with two other sophomores, Mike and Dave Clark, The Rangers squad should be heavy contenders in years to come.

Senior co-captains Aaron Hero and Ken Larsh provided the leadership for this young group to develop into quality runners. Hero had his best race at Quabbin, where he gained a second place finish for the team and led the Rangers to victory. Larsh, the "most spirited" award winner, also had his successes. He broke the home course recoed by 10 seconds (14:27), and qualified for the state championship for the third straight year.

New traditions were started this year, an end of the season banquet and the Golden Shoe Award. This award is given to the freshman runner who tried the hardest and who meant more to the team than just finishing in the top five. Craig Golden won this year, and he looks to be a promising runner for the next four years.

Congratulations to the 1994 Ranger Cross-Country team for a great season, and good luck in the seasons to come. -Ken Larsh

STRIKING DISTANCE

All we have to say is — DISTRICTS. We did it; we accomplished our goal. That is what made this season more memorable than any other. Districts seemed out of reach for us when we started double sessions without a goalie or a defense. Also, we had a total stranger replacing the McCarthys as our coach, so we were even more apprehensive. We all knew that the team needed this change, but we didn't know if Stephanie Carlson was the person for the job. She surpassed all of our hopes. Stephanie brought her experienced and energetic coaching style to the team and we became more confident as players. We ended the regular season with a winning record, 7-6-3, the best record in women's soccer's existence at WHS. And we made WHS women's soccer history by making Districts. We ended the year with a tough, but close, game with Shrewsbury where we lost 0-1. However, we had earned the respect and recognition that we deserved. In the past four years, we have improved our record by a couple of wins each season. Our hard work really paid off.

The team had a really good time together, on and off the field, despite minor differences about who didn't wear the mandatory game outfit to school. Thanks to the coach and team; Marion, Nazli, and the three of us had a last season we will never forget. We want to thank the team for being so coperative and fun to play with. We weren't always very organized, but you guys still stuck with us. Good luck to Alison Battey and Kate Hopkins, next year's captains, and we hope the 1995 team does as well as we did this year (or maybe better).

KICKING IT UP

Over the summer, all that we could talk about was the 1994 soccer season. We were positive that we would have a great season. We won most of our scrimmages against tough teams and started off the season 3-1. We were doing well until our key players started getting injured. Our whole team had to play harder and our line was never the same. Players had to learn new positions every game and eventually we got tired. Then, the losses started to come. At times there was tension because losing is never fun. Towards the end of the season, we remembered that soccer is a game, and we needed to have fun because that's the most important thing.

Everybody worked hard to win. Our final record was 5-12-1, but that says nothing for the talent on the team. Three of the teams we beat during the season did well in Districts, and we felt that we belonged there too. Westboro Men's Soccer has an excellent coach in Gregg Allen. He helped us all a lot and stood by us throughout the entire season. The soccer program in Westboro is just starting to take off and the underclassmen on the team this year are definitely good enough to make it to Districts next year. Good luck!

Go Fight Win

The 1994 Football Cheerleading team was chosen at the end of last year. Early in July Coach Karen DeSiata began holding cheer and stunt practices with the help of the three captains Beth Syat, Melanie Salerno, and Julie Golden, to get the team ready for the upcoming season.

In August, a private instructor came to Westboro to perfect our stunting, jumping, and cheering abilities. Soon after, double sessions began and we continued to practice and condition to look our best.

The season quickly approached and the games, munchies, and tradition of T.P.ing began. It was easy for us to keep our spirits up because of the many Ranger victories throughout the season. Overall, it was a great season and we wish next year's cheering team the best of luck.

The 1994-5 Basketball Cheering team was chosen at the end of November. Because there were many new faces on the team, we had to work diligently to teach many cheers and stunts for the upcoming games.

In the past, the WHS Cheerleaders have been known to compete, but this year we decided not to. Instead, with the help of the girls, we put together a half time routine which the fans enjoyed.

The season came upon us and soon followed Clark Tournament and Districts. Dressing up and making banners helped to boost our team spirit throughout the season.

We would like to commend our Coach Karen DeSiata for the seven wonderful years of coaching at Westboro, and we will miss her. Good luck to the future Cheerleaders and new coach!

With eight returning seniors, and three returning starters from a 20-3 season last year, there were great hopes and expectations for another stellar year for the boys' basketball team. This year we had players with experience, especially in Districts and the Clark Tournament. We started out slow, but once everyone realized their roles on the team we began to play well. As the Clark Tournament and Districts approached, we began to play our best basketball ever.

On and off of the court, we got along really well. Many of us had been friends since middle school, so we all knew what to expect from one another. This made playing a lot easier. At the same time, this team was very competitive at practices, which made things a little tense at times. But that is to be expected when you are with the same people for this much time. And in the end we all got along and played well together.

Our success has come from many contributions led by senior co-captains Matt Paquette and Kevin Larsh, and fellow third-year player Jeff Lusek. Seniors Jarrod Matteson, Jeremy Hall, John Roberts, Sean McElroy, and Mike Stokes returned this year and each contributed to our success. Newcomers Matt Borghesi and freshman Tavis Paquette also added a different dimension to our team. The highlight of the season came with our repeat as Clark Tournament Champions. We defeated Southbridge in the finals to successfully defend our title. With so many highs and lows this has definitely been a memorable season.

Queens of the COURT

When we entered the gym late in November, we had no idea what to expect for the girl's basketball team. We had two new coaches, Mike Clements and Pat Larkin, both with very high expectations. As we ran around during practice listening to a coach who sounded like a drill sergeant, we wondered what our season would be like. With six returning seniors and several experienced underclassmen, we anticipated a fun, spirited season if nothing more. However, we never thought that our team would go undefeated in the league and win the league title. By working hard as a team throughout the season we accomplished these feats. This was a good way for the seniors to end four years of playing basketball together. And for Amanda Young, it was a season she'll never be able to forget. Amanda became the first girl in WHS history to score 1,000 points in her basketball career.

CHECK IT OUT

This year was rough for the Westboro Ranger Hockey Team. However, everyone on the team showed as much heart as they could. With team leaders like Jim Igoe, Jeff Hewins, and Brian LaPointe, we all had examples to follow. We also had a lot to learn.

Our best asset was our determination. Even when we were down 12-0, we never gave up. It was a building year, so next season we will have some firepower with the upcoming freshmen. This year's rookies, Drew Peckham and Scott Alcusky, really helped out on defense and contributed a lot to our team. Hopefully, with a little support, we can come out on top in 1996.

GIRLS INDOOR TRACK

The easiest way to sum up our season would be with our firs winning record, 5-4. The athletes that worked the hardest helpe us win the meets, and we had team spirit in every event fron the two-mile to the 50 yard dash.

Despite our disagreements about what we were going to wea to school to show our team unity, everyone still knew we wer the girls' indoor track team. "Everywhere I turn," someone saic "all I see are indoor track people." We had the largest team ever this year, and overall, I think we had an awesome time!

BOYS INDOOR TRACK

The 1994/1995 Boys Indoor Track season was the same, yet very different from those in the past. You could still find the squad making noise, while running through the halls, and we also continued to give up our weekends as deemed necessary. However, this year there were over eighty members between the two teams. The boys' team consisted of about thirty-five dedicated members, who were all an intricate part of our first winning season. The same team which compiled our five wins and four losses record also finished respectably at districts. Along with the record turnouts, there were a number of records broken. Six in all, and the credit can be given to: Rob Gasser, Aaron Hero, Ken Larsh, Allan Maus, Dirk Mieth, and Captain Keith Rodgers. Team spirit, determination, hard work, and a great deal of encouragement from Coach David Robinson, are what made this season such a large success. Most importantly, this year's team proved that Indoor Track wasn't to be taken lightly. It will only be a matter of time before a banner will hang in the gym that reads "Indoor Track State Champions."

"We'll do it because we don't realize we can't." This was the attitude adopted by Centerstage this year, when we decided to take on our most challenging play yet, "Noises Off" by Michael Frayn. "Noises Off," a British farce about a theater company performing a farce, required precise timing, great physical agility, and a colossal set with eight working doors, two levels, and two full staircases. The acting challenge fell to Meg Williams '96, Brandy Brown '96, Tracey Freitag '96, Amy Cizauskas '96, Adam Slater '96, Tim McKeon '95, Matthew Andreoli '95, Jason Fitzgerald '95, and Trevor Slater '95. Most of the cast were seasoned veterans of Centerstage, but Trevor Slater '95 and Jason Fitzgerald '95 had their acting debut in this production. They were all under the direction of Diane Leahy and Rob Gasser '95. The set was so elaborate it needed a crew of 30 to handle turning it around not once, but twice while Matt O'Neill '95 gave the orders from the second story. After three months of rehearsals and countless platters of sardines, "Noises Off" ran for two performances on December 2 & 3. The play was so well received that it became the first Centerstage fall play to be invited to perform for the entire school on the day before the holiday break.

Centerstage started the year with the challenge of continuing and expanding its long tradition of high quality and diverse performances. A new cast of officers and a new combination of activities promised to make the '94-'95 school year both different and exciting. The officers, Matt O'Neill '95, Josh Rothman '95, Katy Shirey '95, Matt Andreoli '95, Tracy Frietag '96, and Tony Nappa '96, sought to produce the traditional Fall play, a selection of student-directed one-act plays, and a new concentration on Improv.

The year got off to a fast start with the production of the Fall play, Noises Off, written by Michael Frayn and co-directed by our advisor Ms. Leahy, and Senior Robby Gasser. The play's strong cast and talented technical crew helped to make the December 2nd and 3rd production a great success. This difficult production took the combined efforts of Centerstage members both old and new to successfully achieve the standards that the history of Centerstage has come to demand.

One of the many changes in the Centerstage schedule this year was the new date of the student-directed one-act plays. These annual favorites were held on the 3rd of March instead of the usual first week of June. This shift did not change the way that the audience responded to this one night festival of plays directed by students at WHS. These plays provided an opportunity for students to display their acting talent as well as their directing abilities. The one-acts allowed a great number of people in Centerstage to participate in all the facets of theater production.

At the end of the '93-'94 school year Centerstage added to its activities with the advent of an improvisational acting group. Improv, as it is commonly known, blossomed into one of the most important and well-liked aspects of our group. The addition of Improv to the Centerstage repertoire was sparked by the addition of two Improv Troupe presidents; Adam Slater '96 and Betsy Lukey '97. These new officers were instrumental in taking the Improv Troupe beyond just "performance ready" to high quality levels in its first full season.

Each member of Centerstage made a significant contribution to the outcome of this very successful year and all should be thanked for their help, and congratulated for their many and varied accomplishments.

"A codon is : a) a group of three bases that code for an amino acid, b) a type of transgenic wheat, or c) something for safe sex . . . " You may be asking yourself why anyone would care to know the answer to that question. If you were a member of Academic Decathlon (better known as Acadekkah), you'd know the answer to that, as well as facts about 10 other subjects including Science, Literature, Economics, and Fine Arts. We were assisted by many faculty and staff, especially by our coaches Mrs. Libbey and Mr. Fredette. As the members of the team madly prepared for the meet in November (or at least thought really hard about how nice it would be if somebody actually read through all of the material), we wondered if it would be possible to excel without having read the extremely long and boring Arrowsmith. However, to the shock and pleasure of the team, not only did Westborough come in second in the Super Quiz (a major point round for the team), but we came in third overall, missing that state competition by a single Super Quiz question. The strength of the team comes from the variety of students, for wach team is made up of three "A", three "B", and three "C" students. We were also helped out many students who prepared with us and who were ready to jump in at a moment's notice if anything happened to one of our other members. By having such a large sampling of abilities, we came home with medals and ribbons galore. Now that we've had our pizza party to celebrate, all we need are those "Acadekkah" jackets . . . (WE MEAN IT THIS YEAR!!)

For those of you who are still holding your breath, the answer is "a".

Being an NHS member is one way high school juniors and seniors are recognized for their balance of academics, community service work, and leadership activities.

At WHS, the members are actively involved in many projects. For example, we run the recycling program, peer-tutoring, Chug and Chew, all in addition to outside community service projects.

STUDENT COUNCIL

As a new goal for the Student Council of 1994-1995, we took it upon ourselves to raise school spirit. For the first time in WHS history, we held a Halloween Costume Contest which resulted in the participation from students in every grade, as well as teachers. This year I hope that we can create similar contests and activities that receive as much response and spirit as our Halloween contest. In addition to boosting school spirit, every single member has been active in the concession stand that is open for football games. The treasurer, Erin Megin, and I accompanied Mr. Pelletier on weekly trips to B.J.'s for all of the food and drinks that supply our largest profit-making device. In addition, Student Council runs the Red Cross's blood drive, holds dances and car washes, and also gives money to groups such as Toys for Tots during Christmas. The money we raise every year goes toward scholarships for the Student Council seniors that have worked hard and participated in all of our endeavors. With the help of Vice President Jess Pollack, Treasurer Erin Megin, and Secretary Jeremy Shattuck, we have become a very active part of the student body. I would also like to thank these Senior members who I have worked with in this group all through high school: Alissa Pastner, Shana McCullough, Julie Abrams, and Suzy Bouffard.

THE LOBBY OBSERVER — Julie Abrams and Tim McKeon

'Twas the night before Monday
And all through the school,
Not a creature was stirring
Except for the Lobby O'.

For they had a story to write
And write though they did,
For they couldn't let down the teachers
But most of all the kids.

The paper was all nestled
In the hard copy bin,
Waiting to be typed,
Waiting to go in.

When what to our wondering
Eyes should appear
Through the door, Mr. Sharpe,
Finally he's here!

"We need a typist, and quick
For we have not much time,
If the paper doesn't go out
Oh it'd be such a crime."

So we whistled and shouted
And called them by name:

"Now Jarrod, now Josh,
Now Alissa and Matt
We need those written
You're all over that!"

On Cathy, on Katie,
On Chris and Matt G.,
Your story was due on
September twenty-three.

And Sarah, work quick —
Your feature's on page one
Mr. Sharpe's stressing out
And it's no fun.

To the printer, to the cafe
Lunch is almost here,
Now print away, print away,
Have no fear.

They spoke not a word
And went straight to their work
Then printed all the papers
And turned with a jerk.

Down the staircase they fled
With papers in hand
Oh my what a day
The Lobby O' is so grand.

And away the issues flew
With the dawn of a thistle
And students did smile
And students did whistle.

And we heard them exclaim
As they walked out of sight
oh my what a paper —
Those kids can write!

THE 3RD HALF

"The 3RD Half" is Westboro High School's first live sports talk show featuring the Westboro high school athletes. The show was created by host Jeremy Sigel. With the help of crew members, Eric Schoenfeld, David Schoenfeld, Joshua Sigel, Aaron Walters, Joey LaRose, Brian Magneson, and Video Advisor Steven Mascerelli, "The 3RD Half" soon became the show to watch on channel 13 every other Wednesday night.

The fall season of "The 3RD Half" saw the likes of Matt Megin & James Sullivan, Amanda Young, Kevin & Ken Larsh, Erin Megin & Meagan Smith, Erin Heggerick, Marisa Hanaka, Alissa Pastner, Sean McElroy, Matt Paquette, Jeremy Shattuck, Kate & Kris Hopkins, Mr. Walsh, Adam Hurley, Jeff Lusek, Brian Fisher, Gerry Topping, & you with your phone calls, comments, & questions, as they kept on coming throughout the entire show. With segments such as "Sigel Speaks", "Power Rangers", and "Trip to Algonquin", "The 3RD Half" became a part of W. H. S.

▲All that Julie and Beth have to say is WOW MOM!!!

▶Sarah and Janna are living proof of the psychological damage of spending too much time working on the yearbook.

▲▲▲Janna, the GRID-WOMAN, works hard typing the senior grids.
▲▲Hurls takes out her yearbook frustrations on poor, innocent Daniel Massery.
▲Next year's yearbook hopefuls, Gail Sicorez and Jacey Bloom.
▶Sarah strangles Pete during yearbook study . . . can I help ???

I've been putting off writing this piece about the '95 Yearbook staff. What could I say that hasn't been said before; what could I say that wouldn't sound patronizing or artificial. Well, after some thought the unique quality of this group has occurred to me. No one seems to want to quit. Normally by the time we-'re into the third deadline this "quitting" strain is quite loud and getting louder. Who can blame them for feeling frustrated? Hopefully never again they will have to do as much as they do without being paid. However, this group: Abrams, Hawkins, Golden, Heggerick, Peckham, Hurley, Mello, Massery, Matteson . . . doesn't complain; they even seem to enjoy the work. I feel sometimes that I'm in the middle of a forties movie where some bright-eyed kid(Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, or Jane Powell)runs up and says "Hey kids, let's put on a play!" and everyone agrees. It's scary.

Mr. Kaplan

YEARBOOK EDITORS

▲Editor Sarah Hawkins practices for a future career as Vanna White.

Last February, when I filled out my schedule with seventh period yearbook study, I had no idea what I was getting myself into. I remember watching last year's editors and thinking, "That doesn't look so hard." Well, I was wrong!

Once school started, so did the endless cycle of yearbook. Countless days and nights after school, doing all the last minute stuff that should have been done weeks ago. Room 301 has become my home-away-from-home. I'm waiting for the day when we actually have a yearbook sleepover before a deadline. There are so many memories from yearbook UMMM, not having a cover, or spending Friday night with the senior grids! I guess it is true, yearbook editors are crazy!

— Sarah

Period 7 Yearbook a big huge circus with both fun and stressful events. Social Activities, a love affair, gossip, murder and a one-way ticket to the hospital (due to a STRESS overload).

As Business Editor of the '95 Yearbook I've been exposed to many elements of life. It's all been a learning experience and a whole lot of memories. These memories make up this book, especially the people that make the book — the staff and THE CRAZY YEARBOOK EDITORS! Now I'm going to share with you some of the fun you missed by leaving school early or the fun you can experience next year . . .

Gossip sessions with PAM
Organizing the Holiday Ball — IN SEPTEMBER?
UMMMM, UMMMM
My free yearbook -- NOT
Getting rid of WHITE SPACE
Yelling at Mr. Kaplan — for someone else's mistake
Yearbook Camp — THE DOMINATOR, RENT-A-COP, SAM
SUBWAY & PAPA GINOS — on yearbook, sorry Mr. Kaplan
Julie, Sarah, Erin — until 8:00p.m.
Our love affair with T-MAN
The $1600.00 computer — WE NEVER USED!!!

Mr. Kaplan THANK YOU for being patient and understanding and for letting me take control!

I hope you enjoy the book — you should it's GREAT! Good luck next year, I hope you have as much fun as we did.

Julie

▲Business Editor Julie Golden thinks, "It's just too easy."

ARE CRAZY

There is so much I can say about my experience being the photo editor this year, I don't even know where to begin. I thought that the most appropriate way to express my feelings about being part of the yearbook staff would be through a Top 10 list.

Top 10 Reasons to be a Photo Editor

10. Access to the radio that only picks up static.
9. The cool "floor" seat at the pep rallies.
8. A key to the closet — a definite plus!
7. Free Subway and Papa Gino's, compliments of Golden (sorry Mr. Kaplan).
6. Ummmmmmmmmmmmmm . . .
5. Gossip sessions with Pam.
4. The feeling you get when you just miss that Kodak Moment.
3. Two words — YEARBOOK CAMP.
2. The free yearbook at the end of the year, as a reward for all our hard work . . . wait, we don't get that!
1. Room 301 is directly across from T-Man seventh period.

I would just like to thank everyone who devoted so much of their time to the yearbook this year. I know at times it was less than enjoyable, but I believe that all the hard work has paid off. Mr. Kaplan, thank you for all your patience. I know that I can be kind of, well . . . weird sometimes, but you've always been very tolerant with my mood swings, thanks. Good luck to all the juniors next year, you'll need it! Julie, Go-Go, and Sarah, what can I say? You gals rule and best of luck next year. And finally, to Sam, wherever he may be, I will remember you always!!

Erin

I can't believe I actually thought I knew what I was getting myself into. I mean, I had known that yearbook editors had a lot of work, but not until this year was I fortunate (???) enough to experience it firsthand. Without the help and patience from our period 7 yearbook study (with daily sightings of T-MAN), or Friday nights with Sarah and the Senior grids, or Subway with Julie, Sarah and Erin — UMMM — this year would never have been so productive and fun.

If I had to describe being a yearbook editor in one word . . . overwhelming (but worth it). Good luck next year.

Sarah — Thanks for your patience, etc. It's been great. GdLk. And remember, you can't judge a book by its cover! (thanks Ali B).

Julie

SPEEDING AWAY

June is often the month of changing relationships. Some of us are graduating, others will say good-bye to their graduating friends, and many of us will be going away for the summer months. We'll be adjusting to these changes, and there are lessons to be learned from all this movement. Very few friendships, in fact very few relationships, remain exactly the same over a lifetime, even though we may want them to be constant.

Someone once described this phenomenon in the following way: Imagine that you are sitting on the shore of an island. In the distance on your right a ship begins to sail into view, slowly growing larger. But just as surely, it will sail out of view to your left. Sometimes many ships are on the horizon, some closer than others, some anchored for awhile. Some even reappear from time to time. But most, if not all, eventually sail out of view. These ships are symbols of your friends.

We all yearn for friendships to remain the same. We get comfortable sharing our secrets with our best friend and being completely ourselves with him/her. When we are very young, our family members are our entire life. As we grow up, we can pick and choose other people to enlarge the circle. But inevitably the people in this circle will change from year to year.

So this June put your friends' addresses in your yearbook near their pictures and promise to write. Then do. Writing is an awesome way to keep in touch — you'll always have that letter to read and reread. In fact, your yearbook and your letters are documents of your life that can help you survive separation.

So as you head off this summer in whatever direction, remember where those ships on the horizon are. Don't be fearful of them sailing into or out of view.

Change is growth.

Dominic,
You grew so fast and so tall,
That before I knew it,
You were playing high school football.

Then came trucks and cars,
And I know your future will race to the stars.

It was always Mom more Macaroni and Gravy,
Now it's Mom I'm thinking of joining the Navy.

As a child you escaped the torture of the measles,
But now as a young man you can't wait to work on diesels.

When the girls are around,
Keep your feet on the ground,
They will take a great part,
Of your time and your heart,
But Dom don't despair,
You have more important things to repair.

Melissa will miss your rides to school,
Sitting in your Blue Truck she looked oh so cool.

As Grampa's Flag flies so bright and so high,
You know he will always guide you from the heavens in the sky.

We are so proud of all you have done,
You are truly the "WORLD'S GREATEST SON".

ODE TO # TWO
Praise the Lord, we have all survived
Kristin made it to 1995.
Who would have thought a girl knee high to a pebble
Would turn out as fast as the Tasmanian Devil.
Bequiling and stubborn are part of her art
And so is the smile that melts everyone's heart.
Her spirit is testing, questioning and trying
Sometimes wistful, sometimes defying.
Praises for effect and tough fortitude
She shrugs off with a smile and says "WHATEVER DUDE."
Now she said, "Don't make this embarrassing, sloppy, stupid or harassing."
Therefore this poem is quick not long or slow
So we say "TWO DOWN AND ONE TO GO."

Now that you have looked through the entire yearbook, we, the editors, feel that you should know exactly who put their time into creating these pages.

The following people came to seventh period yearbook study everyday (or every other day if they had gym):

Janna Peckham
Pete Mello
Gail Sickorez
Kristy Aldrich
Jarrod Matteson
Beth Hurley
Jody Moro
Dan Massery
Jacey Bloom
Pam Lowenstein

But as always, there were several people who did even more than we could ever ask, and took the initiative to do work themselves and made less work for us.

— Janna Peckham, we can't thank you enough! All your time spent typing grids, making layouts, helping with the senior pages, and staying late was not unnoticed, and we really appreciate it.

— "Jeremy Sigel to room 301", we bet you didn't know what you were getting yourself into when you agreed to do all the headlines, but thanks, they look great!

— "You can't judge a book by its cover", unfortunately some people do . . . Alison Bagg, you saved our lives. (Alison Bagg painted the cover of the yearbook last minute).

— Beth Hurley, the "best caption writer in the world", thanks for doing the job we hated most, TYPING! Beth typed the grids, copy, captions, and anything else we threw her way, and she still had the motivation to come up with funny captions.

— Pete Mello drew the title page and was one of the most motivated members of our staff. We will never forget the day Pete did the entire Senior Candid page by himself, because we were too tired to do anything. We missed you second half of the year!

— Ilyse Davis, the artist of all the color backgrounds and the art page, brought artistic talent to the yearbook, even though the editors are the most unartistic people on earth.

— Gerry Topping, thanks for helping Julie G. fill the juice machine.

— A special thank you to everyone who wrote about their activity for the yearbook. We know it was a pain, but your contributions personalize the yearbook.

— and of course, Mr. Kaplan, thank you for putting up with us and letting us take over your room, being an editor wasn't as bad as we thought.

Good Luck next year! Gail, Jacey, etc. it is a big job, but we now you guys will do it well.

Adios — It was fun! Love, Sarah and Julie
